DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

Claim 1 is objected to because of the following informalities: The claim must be directed to a PLANT. See 35 U.S.C. § 162; MPEP 1605. Appropriate correction is required. The following claim is suggested:

-- A new and distinct variety of Prunus plant, as herein illustrated and described. --

35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the statutory basis for a rejection that may be made at a later date in response to this Examiner's Requirement for Information:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

The claimed Prunus variety 'VVA-1' is described in Breeder's Right NLI 8804451 filed with the Russian Federation on September 3, 1987 as application number 23043. The grant was published January 1, 1991 and the application was published on October 3, 1987, both more than one year prior to the filing date of the instant application. The published grant and application are "printed publications" under 35 U.S.C. 102 because they are accessible to persons concerned with the art to which the document relates. See In re Wyer, 655 F.2d 221, 226, 210 USPQ 790, 794 (CCPA 1981). See also MPEP § 2128.

For example, three times a year, the Russian Federation publishes an Agricultural/Plant Biology Journal containing the information appearing in its Registers, in particular applications for protection, proposals for variety denomination and grants of title. Any other information the Russian Federation feels the public should be informed about may also be published in the Gazette.

A printed publication can serve as a statutory bar under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) if the reference, combined with knowledge in the prior art, would enable one of ordinary skill in the art to reproduce the claimed plant. In re LeGrice, 301 F.2d 929, 133 USPQ 365 (CCPA 1962). If one skilled in the art could reproduce the plant from a publicly available source, then a publication describing the plant would have an enabling disclosure. See Ex parte Thomson, 24 USPQ2d 1618, 1620 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 1992) ("The issue is not whether the [claimed] cultivar Siokra was on public use or sale in the United States but, rather, whether Siokra seeds were available to a skilled artisan anywhere in the world such that he/she could attain them and make/reproduce the Siokra cultivar disclosed in the cited publications.").

Art Unit: 1661

While the publications cited above disclose the claimed plant variety, a question remains as to whether the references are enabling. If the plant was publicly available, then the published application, proposed denomination or granted PBR certificate, combined with knowledge in the prior art, would enable one of ordinary skill in the art to reproduce the claimed plant.

The ability of the Office to determine whether the claimed plant was publicly available is limited. Search of electronic databases, the Internet and the Office's collection of retail catalogs has revealed evidence that the claimed plant was available in Russia more than one year prior to the filing date of the instant application (see Provorchenko et al.). However, this evidence is not conclusive.

Furthermore, the claimed plant may have been sold at the wholesale level, sold under a different name, or even distributed to interested parties free of charge. Since the inventor and assignee of the instant application are in a better position to know when, if ever, the claimed plant was made publicly available, the Examiner is requiring this information in the attached Requirement for Information Under 37 CFR 1.105.

OBJECTION TO THE DISCLOSURE

37 CFR 1.163

The following is a quotation of section (a) of 37 CFR 1.163:

(a) The specification must contain as full and complete a disclosure as possible of the plant and the characteristics thereof that distinguish the same over related known varieties, and its antecedents, and must particularly point out where and in what manner the variety of plant has been asexually reproduced. In the case of a newly found plant, the specification must particularly point out the location and character of the area where the plant was discovered.

35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

As specific to United States Plant Patent applications, the specifics of 37 CFR 1.164 (reproduced below) are controlling:

The claim shall be in formal terms to the new and distinct variety of the specified plant as described and illustrated, and may also recite the principal distinguishing characteristics. More than one claim is not permitted.

In plant applications filed under 35 U.S.C. 161, the requirements of 35 U.S.C. are limited. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 162:

No plant patent shall be declared invalid for noncompliance with section 112 of this title if the description is as complete as is reasonably possible. The claim in the specification shall be in formal terms to the plant shown and described.

The disclosure is objected to under 37 CFR 1.163 (a) and under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification presents less than a full, clear and complete botanical description of the plant and the characteristics which define same per se and which distinguish the plant from related known cultivars and antecedents.

More specifically:

A. Applicant should provide the case serial number of each co-pending application listed in the cross reference section. 'VSV-1' is United States Plant Patent Application Number 09/880,951; 'LC-52' is United States Plant Patent Application Number 09/880,950.

B. Applicant should provide the Botanical Designation of the Claimed Plant in it's own separate section following the guidelines of 37 CFR 1.163(c)(4). The proper botanical name of the claimed plant appears to be – Prunus tomentosa X P. cerasifera --. Furthermore, applicant should provide the correct botanical designation for the claimed plant throughout the specification (i.e. Prunus tomentosa X P. cerasifera, Prunus hybrid, etc.)

C. Page 1, line 26, applicant should specify that the claimed cultivar originated as a single plant.

D. Applicant should provide the age of the plant as described in the Detailed Description of the Variety, as well as describe the typical environmental conditions in the location of culture.

E. Page 2, line 2, and elsewhere, as appropriate, applicant should state that the instant plant differs from "all existing varieties of Prunus" – KNOWN TO THE INVENTOR—and that the claimed plant can be used as a rootstock for all cherries –KNOWN TO THE INVENTOR--, it is not possible for applicant to assert these characteristics for all rootstock and/or cherry plants that may exist throughout applicant's patent term, particularly those that may not yet exist.

F. Page 3, line 23, applicant states the claimed plant is "Low fruit bearing". Applicant should specify whether the plant itself bears a low amount of fruit or whether it lowers fruit bearing when used as a rootstock. As the claimed plant's main function is as a rootstock variety, the present recitation is unclear/confusing in this regard.

G. Applicant should provide the lenticel number per specified unit of area (i.e. lenticel concentration) for the lenticels appearing on the trunk and branches of the claimed plant.

H. Applicant should provide information as to the heat tolerance of the claimed plant, if available.

The above listing may not be complete. Applicants should carefully compare the claimed plant with the botanical descriptions set forth in the specification to ensure completeness and accuracy and to distinguish the plant within this expanding market class. Any further botanical information should be imported into the specification, as should any additional or corrected information relative to same.

CLAIM REJECTION

35 U.S.C. § 112, 1st and 2nd Paragraphs

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first and second paragraphs as not being supported by a clear and complete botanical description of the plant for reasons set forth in the Objection to the Disclosure Section above.

References Cited

The references cited on the attached PTO-892 are made of record to show the state of the art, the UPOV reference is believed to disclose the claimed plant.

Applicants and/or the assignee(s) of this application are required under 37 CFR 1.105 to provide the following information that the examiner has determined is reasonably necessary to the examination of this application.

The information is required to determine when, if ever, the claimed plant variety, 'VVA-1', was publicly available prior to the filing date of the instant application.

In response to this requirement please provide any information available regarding the sale or other public distribution of the claimed plant variety anywhere in the world, including the date(s) of any sale or other public distribution.
